

[illegible]

have a large dispensation to live in peace, with y and trouble, when our power. Then were not the same, but he was letters to the President, the Treasury, the Collector of the Customs, and the of (as stolen it is and will claim "I see the powers that be" and the office of —an easier task than to S, whenever both parties opposite views platform ours will go under, and the result with severe

This meeting with the pretty girl and an end was long and difficult. At last he had to marry her, and, three weeks after the marriage, the couple sailed for England.

There are various accounts of their absence. It was said that the "Captain," as he was known by a general name, commanded a brig in the Caribbean seas, and did business as an active and fearless privateer, but that he had gone to Texas to see Judge Watrous, and claim the fortune left by LeBlé. It was also said that he had retired on the proceeds of a furo bank, in which he was interested, and fitted him up a ranch at Corpus Christi.

Most likely this latter is the correct version.

In 1857, when McCulloch appeared at the head of the scout or rangers, by which Old Zack set such store, he had been made responsible for the and referred to the appropriate commissioners.

Appointments of elsters at Sixteenth and Walnut streets, Gray & Callahan, contractors.

Appointments of elsters at Eighth and York streets, Gray & Callahan, contractors.

Appointments of well at Sixteenth and Magazine streets, J. Lentz, contractor.

Appointments of well at Third and Lytle streets, Henry Hoefler, contractor.

CLAIMS ALLOWED.

C. R. Parsons, $38 95, for paving sidewalk intersections.

John Zeller, $11 33, for paving sidewalk intersections.

I. H. King, $19 24, for paving sidewalk intersections.

Wm. W. Wilben, $255 19, for stone wall on First street, south of Kentucky.

J. M. B-waner, $364 24, for gutters on First street, south of Kentucky.

On the other hand so much on whether offered no more

[illegible][illegible][illegible]

Beckers in Blaine, and his friends and audience. Trusting he was as happy to the South as here.
 The Knickerbocker does well to give a description of the development of his scholars. He scarcely expunge questionable material as he would from his own.
 The following were present: Messrs. Brodson, Dent, Dur-son, Heintz, Miller and Robinson—Messrs. President Orrill, and Messrs.
 Noyes, Byrne, Daniel, Downey, Dulany, Sanner, Harrington, Karsner, McTeague, Marrell, O'Connor, Sargent and Vismann.
 The third proposition was also rejected by the following vote: Yeas—Messrs. Brodson, Dent, Dur-son, Heintz, Miller, Robinson and Vismann—7.
 Nays—President Orrill, and Messrs.
 Noyes, Byrne, Daniel, Downey, Dulany,
 Sanner, Harrington, Karsner, McTeague, Marrell, O'Connor and Sargent—16.
 When the resolution, as amended, was adopted,
 The resolution to adjourn until Thursday evening, October 31st, at 7½ o'clock, was adopted, with the following vote:
 Aft. 16.
 Yeas—The grand French protest, the opening of the Salon de 1867, will be held in October, 1867, at a cost of four hundred millions of francs. It is thought the annual revenue will be sixty millions.
 France has a strong interest in having—

